Irini has studied design in London and later in Florence and has been influenced by the culture of the Italian city, bringing the air and romance of Italy and Florence in particular, to her own small atelier, with her establishment in Cyprus.

Here she creates unique dresses and clothes, focusing on every small detail, using exquisite and fine fabrics, to create clothes that will dress the personality of each woman, highlighting the charismatic aspect of each one individually, in a limited edition collection for each season!

All clothes and dresses without exception are tried on each woman before purchase and adjusted to her own body type, where and when is possible.
